

Members of State Smog Board Listed, Backgrounds Reviewed

By RICHARD RICHARDS
State Senator

Membership of the newly-created Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board has been announced by the Governor, and the control program enacted last March will be ready to begin operations when the law becomes effective on July 8.

As provided by the new law, nine members of the 13-member board are appointive by the Governor. The other four posts go automatically to the directors of the State department of Public Health, Agriculture, Motor Vehicles and the California Highway Patrol. THE LAW further requires that the nine appointive memberships include representatives of science, agriculture, industry, labor, motor vehicle users, local air pollution control officials and three members from the general public. Representing science is Dr. A. J. Haagen-Smit of the California Institute of Technology, well-known specialist in smog-control studies.

DR. JULIUS B. ASKEW, Health Officer and Air Pollution Control Director for San Diego County, represents officials in this field. Theodore Merrill of Long Beach, vice president of the Western Conference of Teamsters, is the labor representative. Dr. John T. Middleton of the University of California in Riverside will represent agriculture as a leading expert in the effects of smog on plant life.

THE REPRESENTATIVE of automobile users organizations is John C. Spencer, general manager of the California State Automobile Assn.

The representative of industry is James Allen, vice president of the Northrop Corporation in Los Angeles County.

REPRESENTING the general public are Dr. John Saunders, dean of the University of California Medical School; Harold V. Thompson, Fresno attorney associated with the creation of the San Joaquin Valley Air Pollution Control District; and Mrs. Michael C. Levee, Jr., of Beverly Hills, who has headed the Stamp Out Smog Assn. in Los Angeles County.

The first duty of the new board will be to contract with qualified testing laboratories for the testing of smog-control devices for motor vehicles. One year after two or more devices have been tested and certified by the board, such a device will be required by law on all new vehicles sold in California.

COUNTIES have the option of exempting used cars if they find, after a public hearing, that atmospheric conditions within their boundaries do not require these devices. Hearings of this kind must be held every two years. As the above procedure would indicate, there is still a great deal to be done in the way of testing and certification, but at least we are on the way.

Clubs Keep Schools Busy

Torrance schools were used more than 1500 times by outside community groups during the third quarter of the current school year, according to a recent report to the Board of Education.

The Little Leagues were the leading user during the period, with 549 permits taken out. The Torrance Recreation Department followed closely, with 522 permits.

Other major users of school facilities include the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, PTAs, YMCA, Campfire Girls, YW-

CA, SC extension courses, and others. Other users include the U.S. Census Bureau, service clubs, barbershop quartets, and nurseries.

CHARLES BARKER

Belasco Backing Charles Barker For Water Post

Councilman Jack Belasco of Hermosa Beach has endorsed the re-election of Charles D. Barker as director of the Central and West Basin Water Replenishment District in the election to be held next Tuesday, June 7th.

Last week Belasco announced his support of Barker. Last November Belasco was Barker's opponent for the same office. At that time Barker was elected and has since served as director and secretary. Barker has long worked effectively with water problems of the West Basin as director of the West Basin Water Assn.

ELECTED TO the board of newly formed Replenishment District in November, Barker drew a short term at the new board's formation meeting and he is now standing for election for a full four-year term.

To obtain continuity of direction and management of a district, the law requires, after a simultaneous election of all five directors upon the formation of a new district, that no more than three director's terms shall expire at one time. This is accomplished by drawing lots at the first board meeting.

THUS IT was that in the case of the newly formed central and West Basin Water Replenishment District Barker was one of the two drawing a short term.

Belasco who is the Hermosa Beach representative to the West Basin Water Assn. said: "Barker's knowledge of and experience in water matters" prompted him to endorse Barker, the man he once opposed.
